Office Memorandum • UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

TO : Chief, Intelligence School

DATE: 12 November 1957

FROM : Chief, Orientation Faculty

SUBJECT: Weekly Activities Report #46, 6 November - 12 November 1957

1. Significant Items:

Nothing to report.

2. Other Activities:

a. Intelligence Orientation #15 ended on Friday, 8 November. Students reacted most favorably in their critiques to the course content and administration. The course was administered in functional units in the following order: Introduction to Intelligence, Production, Collection, Support and Operations. This arrangement seems to have contributed to better student understanding and appreciation.

Both the Support Exhibit and the Intelligence Products Exhibit were enthusiastically received by students. The five noon-time movies, dealing with area surveys, an innovation in this course, were well attended - with about 50% of the student body viewing them on a voluntary basis.

b. In addition to the 10 students approximately  Agency personnel attended the Support Exhibit and about  attended the Intelligence Products Exhibit.

An innovation in the Support Exhibit was the demonstration by the Office of Personnel of the new Flexiwriter system for processing personnel records. In the Products Exhibit, ORR has completely revised its presentation.

Colonel L.K. White, Deputy Director (Support), attended the Support Exhibit and General L. Truscott, Deputy Director (Coordination), attended the Intelligence Products Exhibit. General Truscott stated that the invitations sent to representatives of other IAC Agencies to attend the Exhibit provided a good method of improving inter-Agency cooperation.

c. On 12 November,  audited  CIA Review lecture for returnees. He will serve as  substitute, when the latter goes on leave next month.
